Romulus ready for expansion

Putting people back to work starts at home. And Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally is looking to local business and industry to create the jobs needed to put people on the payroll. She has also invited foreign companies and corporation to come to the city and look at its potential.

Mayor McAnally wants business to relocate here. To do so, companies can look forward to tax incentives.

The industrial future of the city was the topic of discussion last week as Mayor McAnally and Chuck Hazen of the Michigan Department of Commerce-Office of Economic Development, met in a "brain storming" session with industrial leaders at the Ramada Inn Wednesday.

"Our main objective is to put our ideas together and to begin to make plans for the promotion of our mutually held and very valuable assets that make up the City of Romulus," said Mayor McAnally in her opening speech.

"We all recognize the many resources of our city. An international airport, two railroads, and east-west-north-south expressway network

"Romulus provides several advantages to those who wish to relocate. We are a low tax base area and we have demonstrated our cooperation in the past with firms . . ."

Mayor McAnally

and our proximity to major educational and research centers makes Romulus unique in the region.

"Romulus has a great potential and this mayor stands ready to assist you and work with you to make your ventures successful and to make our city one of the most progressive and successful in Michigan," she said.

Dennis Meagher, president, and Dick Carlisle, Planning Consultant, of Community Planning, the firm that serves as the city's planner, presented the City of Romulus Master Plan which was adopted in 1976 and gave an update on the progress and modifications since the plan was adopted. "The primary influence is the airport," said Meagher. "The airport consumes 22 percent of the land area and is the primary focal point of the city. Our goal is to maximize the use of existing facilities such as the airport, freeways and railroads."

Phil McKenna of Wzancy and McKenna and Associates, Inc., spoke on the Wick Road project.

McKenna related that negotiations had been made with land owners, private developers and two universities for the purpose of developing a hotel, training and education and conference center in the Wick and Wickham area.

McKenna also presented graphics showing the zoning and existing facilities in the area which is bound by Wick, Merriman, Ecorse and Wayne Roads. "The key to development," said McKenna, "is private money. For every four dollars that a private investor can put into this project, one dollar may be obtained from federal sources."

Also making a presentation was Detroit Metropolitan Airport Manager, Tim Ward, and Robert Conrad, Airport Project Director. The Airport Master Plan showed the future development of the complex which included an access route from Eureka Road, land acquisition and changes in the ingress and egress areas of I-94 at Merriman and Middlebelt.

The Middlebelt exchange was of much concern to most people present because of the confusion that the present freeway off ramp presents to motorists and other people doing business in the area. Conrad explained that conversations are now being held with the State Department of Transportation in an effort to make the necessary changes. Ward, while discussing past conflicts between the city and the airport expressed his feelings by saying, "In the past there has been an adversarial situation with the city; I hope that this is behind us."

Community Development Director, Patrick Hogan spoke briefly on the Economic Development Corporation and made mention that money is currently available to any existing company for the expansion of any new firm or company that would like to relocate in the area.

The floor was then opened for discussion. One of the topics was companies looking for areas in which to relocate because of expansion problems within the communities in which they now reside.

The economy and the schools

'84 is critical for Romulus

If there are a lot of happy auto manufacturers and businessmen today thanks to the improving economy, that exuberance is not enjoyed by school officials and educators who "are worried about the future of education in this country."

Education is not sharing in the wealth that is here and expected to increase during 1984 and beyond, say officials. They point to an archaic system for funding schools and increases in the over-all expenses of keeping school doors open. Michigan's school aid formula is also being challenged in the courtroom, thanks to Dr. William Bedell, Superintendent of Romulus Schools.

The formula, adopted in 1973, guarantees a flat $365 per pupil, plus $50.55 for each mill approved by the local school district's voters. (One mill is equaled to $1 for each $1,000 of equalized property valuation).

The formula helps perpetuate inequalities in school financing, making the rich school districts richer and the poor, poorer. In the richer school districts, such as Birmingham, Grosse Pointe, Dearborn and Ann Arbor, schools receive more than $3,000 in local and state revenues to educate their students, while in the poorer districts, such as Romulus, Detroit, Lincoln Park and Pontiac that figure is closer to $2,000.

"1984 will be the year the residents of Romulus decide whether their school district will stay an important factor in their children's and their lives or whether it will slide into ineffective mediocrity."

Dr. William Bedell,
School Superintendent

Dr. Bedell views 1984 as a critical year for education in Romulus.

"After three years of extreme financial pressure, the district has exhausted all of its options," Dr. Bedell noted. "Help from the state is too little and too late."

Dr. Bedell points out that the lawsuit begun by the school district several years ago that demands equity with rich school district could drag on for years. "The schools presently are on a 5-hour a day schedule and 30 percent of our work force has been laid off, therefore, the loss of high school accreditation is imminent. Many important services have been eliminated," he added.

Without additional revenue in the form of a millage increases, Romulus schools will not be able to operate a full year in 1984, Dr. Bedell warned.

There is some good news, however, the school superintendent noted.

"The millage prospect is somewhat brighter," Dr. Bedell said, "and the economy definitely is improving which will put people back to work. Industrial growth continues with two-thirds of our local property taxes being paid by factories and businesses."

"In addition, despite all of the financial strains, good things are happening in the schools. Staff morale is high and students are responding with improved achievement. Our instrumental music program continues to receive state-wide recognition and plaudits and the boys basketball and wrestling teams are having

Feeling good about Romulus

Mayor Beverly McAnally assembled the industrial and financial leaders of the community last week to discuss the future progress and development of Romulus. When the discussion was over, there was optimism that 1984 will be a notable one in the city's history. On hand at the center table were Mayor McAnally, Charles H. Dennis Meagher (from left), President of Community Planning, Mayor McAnally, Charles H. Michigan Department of Commerce, Office Economic Development, and Dick Carlisle, Community Planning.

The Economy - 1984

Aside from world peace, there is no other major topic of concern that Americans of the 80s discuss with more feelings and emotions than "the economy."

The unemployed and the employed look to the economy with hope that it will continue to improve: those who are employed seek to stay on the payroll; those who aren't hope to find their place in the job market.

And, 1984 appears to be the year of the great economic turnaround. Only time will tell.

The Associated Newspapers, in its six editions this week, interviewed some of the members of the community to see how they view the economy and the potential in 1984.

Young patients and their mothers wait for appointments at the Sumpter Road PRESCAD Clinic (above). Meanwhile, the clinic's popular director Dr. Joseph Kobiljak checks up on Adam Wisniewski, 15, from Belleville. A proposal to merge the clinic for low-income mothers and children with the neighboring Oakwood Center has drawn fire from Sumpter patients.

PRESCAD has lots of area friends

Clutching her sick child tightly, Nancy Sobolew sat in the waiting room of the Sumpter MIC-PRESCAD (Mothers, Infants and Children-Parents and Children Pre-Adolescent and School Age) Clinic and vehemently spoke her mind.

"Closing this clinic," she told a reporter, "is the worse thing I've ever heard of."

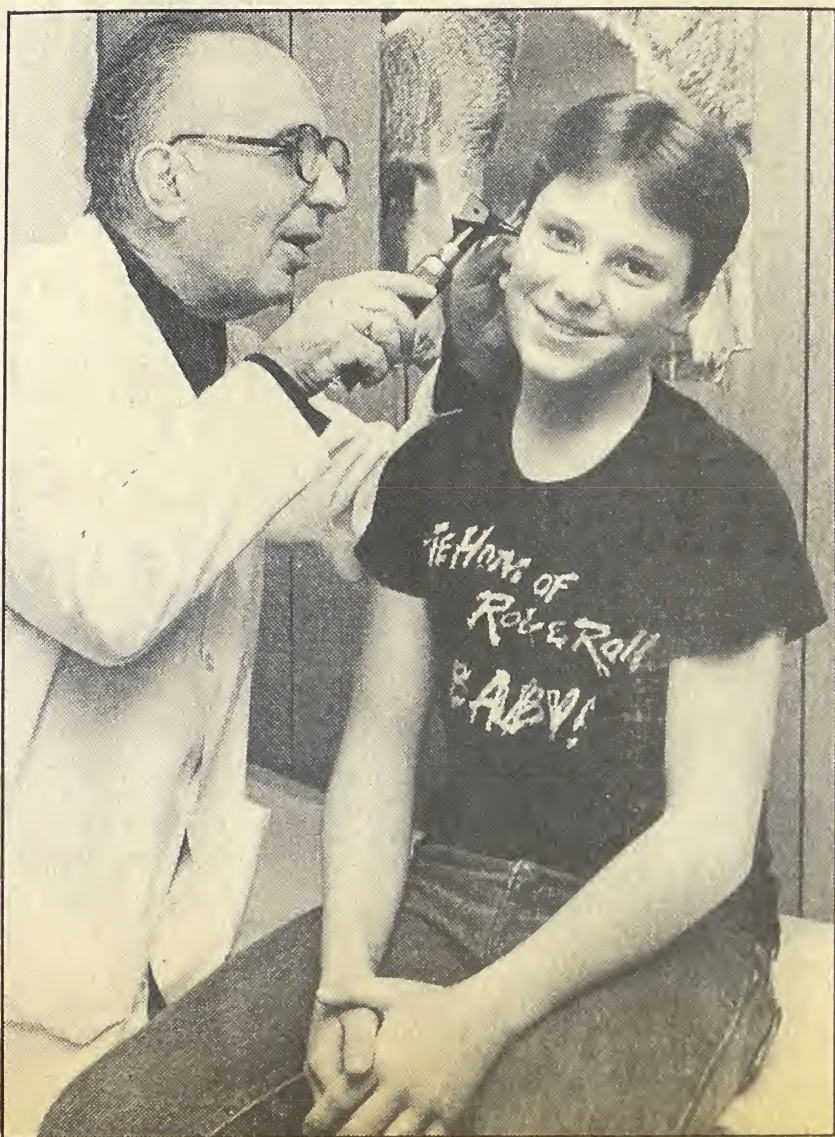

"I'm here all the time," continued Sobolew, the mother of three small sons. "Checkups, fevers, physicals, everything. Michael has a 101 fever today, so we came down. How can they close a place like this?"

Sobolew concedes she's one of the luckier clinic visitors — her husband, after a spell of unemployment, is working again. "But I couldn't pay for services like this," she said. "Dr. K (Joseph Kobiljak, clinic director and principal physician) calls me at 11 to see how my boy is doing. What private doctor does that?"

Like Sobolew, many visitors to the PRESCAD clinic are finding their temperatures rising at the news that the 15-year old facility will close its doors to merge with the Oakwood Family Medical Center two miles down Sumpter Road. An exact date hasn't been announced, but Albert Head, a Detroit-based PRESCAD spokesman predicts the merger will take place in the next six months.

Funded by federal and state grant money and administered through the Wayne County Department of Public Health, the clinic provides free medical care, including dental treatment, to expectant mothers, infants, and children up to 18. The facility is intended for low-income families in Wayne County.

Prescad officials point out that the merger will save much-needed federal funds while still providing patients with access to a nearby family-care facility. For their part, Oakwood staff maintain that they are ready and willing to treat the Sumpter patients, using a sliding scale fee that can run as low as $3.00 per patient.

But Sumpter Clinic staff and patients fear the switch will increase hardships for clinic clientele.

"This is a clinic for the working poor," maintains Virginia Turan, a pediatric nurse specialist and long-time Clinic staffer. "The single mother working as a waitress, the father who works pumping gas."

"They work at minimum wage jobs. No benefits. No Blue Cross. They don't qualify for Medicare. If their child has an Reluctant to discuss details of the merger, Dr. Kobiljak said, "The people making the decisions know something about the financial situation. I do not."

"I personally feel attached to all the families I serve," said the physician, a staff member of Children's Hospital. "Of course, I feel sorry saying goodbye to so many nice patients."

While patients echo the praises of the German-born "Dr. K," Kobiljak admonishes a reporter "Don't make me a earache and they go to a private doctor, it can cost them $75. You can't pay for that on a $4 an hour salary," said Turan.

Turan says she worries that even a minimum fee would discourage patients from seeking treatment. "What may happen is that many parents will stop taking their kids to the doctor unless someone breaks an arm. The regular check-ups will go."

The nurse also said she thought many clinic patients would seek treatment at the free Inkster-based PRESCAD clinic rather than switch to Oakwood.

Van Buren, union employees agree to 2-year contract

After nine months of negotiations, Van Buren Township employees and the Board of Trustees have reached agreement on a new two year contract.

The trustees voted unanimously at the January 24 meeting to approve the contract with local American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees (AFSCME). On January 12, the 25 AFSCME employees ratified the contract by a 16 to 8 vote, with one vote discarded as invalid.

Union members were not celebrating ratification, according to Anita Parsons, Local 236 president. "Mainly, we just wanted to get this settled. No one was really all that happy about it," said Parsons, an account clerk in the water department.

The union's chief dispute was the agreement to reduce sick days from 12 to 6 a year, said Parsons. "We agreed to a wage freeze, so money wasn't an issue. The big issue was sick time."

Other issues settled in the contract included reducing the number of hours off for the president to attend union meetings, and extending Blue Cross coverage for retired employees with a minimum of 10 years service.

A clause in the new contract (which is retroactive to July, 1983) that Parsons terms "very important" guarantees that no

"Of course we're unhappy about giving up half a six day a month," she added.

Van Buren Township Supervisor George Craven said that he didn't regard the change as "unreasonable. These are hard economic times, and everyone can't senior employee will be laid off in favor of sub-contractors.

"The township subcontracted for trash, and no one was laid off. But they wanted the clause thrown out, and we insisted it stand," Parsons said.

But union spokesmen say they are irked by townships' officials on reducing sick days.

"The township has never pleaded inability to pay," said Denise Partridge, Local secretary. "It seemed to be a point with them that they just wanted us to make a concession on this."

get what they want," Craven said. "I think it's a fair agreement."

Negotiations between the two groups began shortly after last year's contract expired in April. A state appointed mediator was called in after negotiations broke off in August.

Meanwhile, the two sides will face off shortly in spring — a result of "wage re-opener" clause. "We'll begin talking about salaries around March," Parsons said. "There'll be a breather until then."

Sumpter opposes merger

By EVE SILBERMAN
ANP Staff Writer

Preventing a merger between the Sumpter PRESCAD Clinic for low income patients and the neighboring Oakwood Hospital Family Practice Center is a top priority, the Sumpter Township Board of Trustees decided last week.

The board went on record as willing "to pursue what is necessary" to stop the merger, and the resulting sliding fee scale that will be adopted by the combined facility.

Currently, MIC-PRESCAD (Mothers, Infants, and Children — Pre-Adolescent and School Age Children) receive free treatment at the 16-year old facility funded by state and federal grants.

"Ending the policy of providing free medical care will cause hardships to the citizens of this community," said Township Supervisor Jim Reeves, who added that legal action was not out of the question to keep the Sumpter Clinic open.

The clinic provides free medical and dental care to expectant mothers, and children up to 18 who live in Wayne County.

PRESCAD spokesman, Albert Head, said from his Detroit office that he doubted if the township had any legal recourse. Head said that he had agreed to postpone the merger for 60 days in order to receive citizen input, but added that an exact closing date hadn't been set.

"I'd expect that it will take about six months for the merger to go through," Head speculated. The change will mean the Sumpter Clinic will close its doors, with a few staff members transferred to the Oakwood facility two miles down Sumpter Road.

About 20 Clinic patients presented letters and cards opposing the merger to Reeves Monday morning. Vernice Anthony, a representative from Wayne County Executive Williams Lucas's office, re-scheduled a planned appearance until Monday, February 5 at 10:00 a.m.

The decision to close the PRESCAD clinic was approved by Lucas in early December. The Wayne County PRESCAD program is the largest in the state, with 11 clinics.

Head acknowledged that Sumpter citizens had made it clear to him at a previous meeting that they were unhappy about the shift.

"They don't think they'll get the quality of care they're used to. They're also unhappy about the fact that they'll be charged in the combined clinic," Head said.

In response, Head pointed out that the re-vamped clinic would be monitored by a citizens' advisory board, who would deal with problems as they came up.

The charges for service, he said, have been in the wind for several years. "The federal government has been stepping up pressure for us to talk about a sliding scale," he said. "Sooner or later, all the PRESCAD (See MERGER Page A-6)

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
By John Brimble

Here's a healthy breakfast: honey and peanut butter on whole grain bread; sprinkle on some crushed cereal flakes and broil until bubbly.

You can use brown rice in recipes that call for white rice, but it does take longer to cook. Brown rice has had less processing, so it's more nutritious.

Mayonnaise, it turns out, is not the reason poorly refrigerated salads go bad. Rather, it is the basic food — usually fish eggs — itself. In fact, the dressing's high-acid content slows bacteria growth.

Yes, you can reuse the flavorful liquid in which you've marinated meat or poultry. But it is perishable, since some meat blood is in it, so be sure to refrigerate the marinade in a glass jar.

What could be easier than cranberry ice? Beat a one-pound can of jellied cranberry sauce at high speed about 5 minutes, then fold in a cup of lemon-lime soda. Freeze in plastic ice cube trays. When firm, buzz in food processor, then freeze in container until 30 minutes before serving.

A host of friends came to honor and "roast" weatherman Lee Vandecar upon his retirement including Jim Reeves, Sumpter Township supervisor (at left). Thanking the crowd for their kind words is Vandecar (below), with wife, Cora. Among the many honors reaped upon him was a Certificate of Service from the United States Commerce Department.

Mayor McAnally said, "Romulus provides several advantages to those who wish to relocate. We are a low tax base area and we have demonstrated our cooperation in the past with firms who desire to come into our city."

Also discussed was the development of a foreign trade zone which is now available in an area along the Detroit River. Both Hazen and Mayor McAnally expressed their interest and support of developing a foreign trade zone in the airport area.

"I am enthused with the spirit of the meeting and the enthusiasm and concerns shown by those attending," said Mayor McAnally. "I feel we have taken a major stride toward the city's future development. We are showing our concern for the well being of our current industrial residents and they are responding by showing their concern for the city's future development."

Also present at the meeting were representatives of Synthetex, Detroit Diesel Allison, National Bank of Detroit, United Brass, Wayne County Economic Development Corporation, Solar Machines, Capac-Kasama, Federal Mogul, Kelsey Hayes, Wyandotte Savings Bank, Solventol Chemical, Manufacturer's National Bank, Lincoln Park Engineering and Michigan Oven Company. Also present, representing the city, were John Hiltz, of Orchard, Hiltz and McCliment, Inc., City Engineers and David Paul, from the city's Building Department.

Future meetings are scheduled with representatives from commerce and retail and major land holders and realtors. A final meeting involving all of the above entities will be held in April.

Now that the overall business climate in the State of Michigan is on an upswing, the Romulus Economic Development Corporation is making available a program designed to assist Romulus businesses which plan to expand or any business that would like to locate within the city.

The REDC is a non-profit corporation established by the city in accordance with Public Act 338 of 1974 of the State of Michigan. The act allows the corporation to issue bonds to finance private development which the corporation determines will enhance economic activity and employment opportunity in the community.

In the past several years, the corporation has participated in the financing of over $10,000,000 of new and/or expansion development projects. The interest rate on these projects has been a preferred rate because the bond buyer is free of any income tax obligation on the revenue derived.

According to REDC secretary, Patrick Hogan, the developers with whom it has dealt on these projects deem this program to be of positive significance. "The Corporation wishes," said Hogan, "to communicate with any and all current and potential Romulus business persons who are considering expansion. I am always happy to discuss with anyone the terms and conditions of this program."

Hogan may be contacted at Romulus City Hall or by calling 941-0666 ext. 241.

Measles pop up in area

Two cases of measles (rubeola) have been confirmed this week in Belleville and Canton Township by the Wayne County Department of Health, the first cases in the county in two years.

Don Lawrenchuk, M.D., the department's medical director, reported that tests on a 12-year-old Belleville boy and a 20-year-old Canton student at the University of Michigan had revealed the illness.

He said that some six persons also are being tested for measles in a Canton Township subdivision located on the southeast corner of Joy Road and Sheldon, where five cases of miscarriages have been reported.

Lee Vandecar

Weatherman retires... to enjoy and complain about the weather

For 40 years, during the best of times and the worst of times, Le-land Vandecar reported the weather.

And, never does the gregarious weathercaster ever recall "when there wasn't any weather to report."

"It was fun — a lot of fun," the now retired New Boston resident reports. "But now I would like to spend the rest of my days enjoying and complaining about the weather with my wife and my family."

Nearly 200 friends, relatives, associates, and former classmates were present at Vandecar's retirement party, held at the Fandango Hall in Taylor on January 13.

Cocktails were served before dinner after which Lee was roasted by his associates and many friends who had come to know him over many years.

A few of these included dignitaries such as Jack Weidenbach, former airport manager at Willow Run, Sonny Eliot, well known radio and TV personality, Mal Sillars, a very popular TV meteorologist at WDIV Channel 4 in Detroit, Gordon Hurley, a retired detective sergeant from the Michigan State Police, George Giblin, retired superintendent from the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority and many more.

Vandecar was born and raised in Belleville, graduated from Belleville High in 1939. Many of his former classmates were present at the party.

Lee's career with the federal services began after attending Michigan Normal College at Ypsilanti. He spent 42 months in the U.S. Marine Corps as a weather forecaster. He returned to civilian life in December of 1945, then returned to Eastern Michigan University to complete his chemistry to either enter medical school or the teaching profession. At this time he re-entered federal service with the weather bureau in June 1947 in Ypsilanti.

Lee remained there until the closing of that office 21 years later in October 1968. He then joined the staff at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and spent the remaining 15 years at that station.

Lee, and his wife, Cora, have been married for 40 years. They have five children: Mrs. Karla Clark of Belleville, Mrs. Karen Struble of Carleton, Mrs. M. Kay Villa of Solvang, California, and Gy/Sgt. Richard Vandecar stationed with the U.S. Marine Corps at 29 Palms, Calif., also Daniel still at home.

Lee and Cora plan to do some traveling, however, they remain at 24926 Haggerty, New Boston.

"Add to this that the MJROTC Unit is rapidly becoming one of the largest in the nation and academically our senior high school students are setting all-time highs, there are many things we here can be proud of."

Dr. Bedell concluded on a caution note that the crisis in the local schools can be resolved by the residents.

"1984 will be the year the residents of Romulus decide whether their school district will stay an important factor in their children's and their lives or whether it will slide into ineffective mediocrity."

The contest is designed to give financial support to the student body of a high school in the trading area of the sponsoring McDonald's Restaurant.

A tally board will be kept at McDonald's of Romulus and the high school, keeping the score.

The classes this year will be dividing $500 between them as follows: 1st place $250; 2nd place $125; 3rd place $75 and 4th place $50.

Learning to Crawl

THE PRETENDERS
"Learning To Crawl"
(Sire)

It's been a pretty tough couple of years for Chrissie Hynde and The Pretenders. In April of 1982, Hynde and the rest of the band fired bassist Pete Farndon, a registered heroin addict in England, for his constant misuse of drugs.

Two days later, guitarist James Honeyman-Scott died of what the coroner called cocaine abuse, although reportedly only traces of the drug were found in his body. In April of '83, sacked bassist Farndon was found dead, drowned in his bathtub from heroin-induced sleep. Somewhere in between the tragedies, Hynde found time to fall in love and have a child by Kink Ray Davies. We're talking heavy changes here.

But Hynde has emerged not only unscathed, but with her (and the rebuilt band's) best, most consistent LP to date. The first single, the forceful "Back On the Chain Gang" became an MTV standard, a part of the soundtrack to Martin Scorsese's "King of Comedy" film; in other words, a big, big hit.

An English Christmas single, "2000 Miles," was a delight, combining Byrd's-like guitars with heavy top-end production (a la Springsteen) playing off a Hynde's vocals. Too bad it wasn't given a holiday push here, but it is included on the album.

The LP's second American single is the hit "Middle of the Road," where Hynde boldly states with a hard stare — not tears — in her eyes that she's "Standing in the middle of life/With my past behind me." No pity, please, she doesn't need it.

On a pure rock 'n' roll musical level, "Learning to Crawl" is a very successful album. On a lyrical one, it may be even better. Songs like "My City Was Gone" and "I Hurt You" are probably future hit singles, as is the band's remake of the 1972 Persuaders' tune "Thin Line Between Love and Hate."

But on tunes like the hard-hitting "Thumelina," which Hynde evidently wrote for her little girl, she eloquently puts into words the things she'd like her daughter to know, now and when she grows up: "What's important in this world/a little boy, a little girl ... all the love in the world for you."

Along with Hynde and original drummer Martin Chambers, the new line-up includes guitarist Robbie McIntosh and bassist Malcolm Foster, both of whom played in numerous other bands before, but none you've ever heard of. Ex-Rockpile axeman Billy Bremner adds his six strings worth here and there, and Nick Lowe cronies Andrew Bodner and Paul "Tempted" Carrack to likewise.

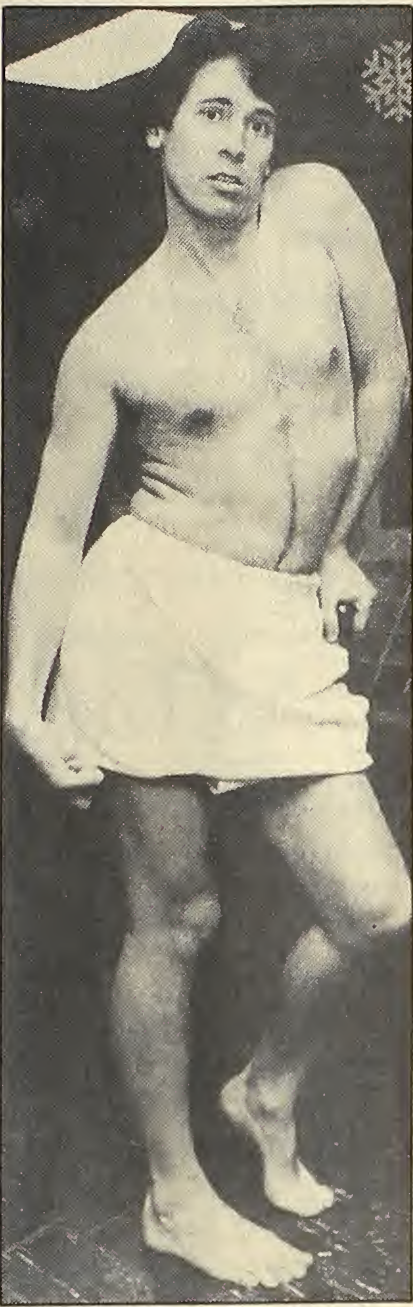

Overall, this is an extremely well-crafted, hummable album that will probably stay in in your "heavy play" stack for quite awhile.

Don't let the title fool you though — these guys learned to run long before they learned to crawl. Highly recommended.

"The Best of Louie, Louie"
(Rhino)

No one can argue that "Louie, Louie" is the world's greatest song, just as no one will doubt that this is the world's greatest party album. Ten bands, ten cuts, ten versions of ... you guessed it! "Louie, Louie."

From the Rice University Marching Owl Band to the Sandpipers (!!) to Black Flag, there's no mistaking those familiar chords played at least once at every high school dance from the early 60s until at least the mid-70s. Each version is different, interesting.

'Elephant Man' performed

David Rago (left) of Canton is cast as the disfigured John Merrick in the Spotlight Players' production of "Elephant Man," to be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the John Glenn High School Auditorium, 36105 Marquette, Westland. The play centers on the life of Merrick, a young man afflicted with neurofibromatosis who displays a strong respect and love for life despite his deformities. Other leading roles are portrayed by Henry Bennett as Dr. Treves (photo at right) and Lorraine Parent of Westland as Mrs. Kendal. Tickets are priced at $4 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens.

month family planning clinic. Sumpter Clinic staff emphasize that their work involves educating, as well as treating, patients. "What we're talking about is well child care," said Truran. "I spend a lot of my time teaching parents about immunization, weaning, growth, and development — so many things. You see parents from 15 to almost 50."

Truran points out with pride the growth of the clinic. When we started, we were open only three half days a week," said Truran. "If we saw 10 people all week, oh my goodness, that was the maximum. Today, it's not unusual for us to have 20, 25 patients in just the morning."

Approximately 2,535 patients were treated at the Sumpter Clinic in 1982-83, the last year figures were available, say PRESCAD staff. About 160 were mothers-to-be, and the rest were children and adolescents up to 18.

For many parents, the unprepossessing white concrete building serves as a one-stop medical center. At the clinic last Thursday afternoon, Kenneth and Sharon Lies waited outside one of the dental rooms for their four-year old son.

"Our boys came here for their physicals, and a couple of miscellaneous colds," said Lies, who is unemployed. "And now they're seeing the dentists. Yeah, we like everybody here a lot. We've never had any problems."

Patients of the Sumpter PRESCAD Clinic will be sent two miles down the road to the Oakwood Center (above) under a merger plan recently approved by Wayne County officials. Oakwood's sliding fee scale worries patients of the free clinic.

The Taylor couple said they were sorry to learn about the merger, but not especially worried about switching to the Oakwood Center. "I guess we'll go there if it's nearby," said Sharon Lies, who works as a hotel maid.

Down the hall, Laura Singleton, 20, sat at one of the child-sized tables with her two-year old son Joshua and waited for her name to be called.

"They do a good job of explaining things to you here," said Singleton, wearing a plaid shirt and blue jeans. "You don't have to ask many questions 'cause they tell you everything."

Like the Lies, the young mother said she could adjust to using a different clinic. "I'll have to try it," she said. "As long as they have doctors like Dr. K there, it should be okay."

"Let's hope so," said Vona Durden, who had accompanied Singleton and was herself a Clinic parent from years back.

"I know some people feel their tax dollars shouldn't pay for this," said Virginia Truran. "But I don't think most of our patients abuse the clinic."

"I had a mother in here yesterday whose four children have all been treated here. She told us, 'I've been very fortunate. I've had healthy children, good dental care, and good health care.' How can you measure something like that in dollars?"

Sumpter board opposes merger

clinics will adopt a sliding scale based on need and family size.

Administered under the Department of Health and Human Services, federal dollars pay for about two thirds of the PRESCAD $7.1 million budget, according to PRESCAD Lansing staff.

While the minimum charge for patients could be as low as $3 to $5, PRESCAD officials are still developing a formula for the combined clinic, said Head.

While Sumpter patients fret about the closing of "their" clinic, Oakwood Center staff emphasize that the welcome mat is spread out for the prospective patients.

"We have more than enough room for the Sumpter patients," said Dr. Gerald Banish, co-director of the clinic. Established in 1972, the facility provides medical care and treatment to all family members.

"We have 19 doctors on staff, who've been trained in family practice all over the country," Banish explained. "We do X-rays, lab work, and have a direct line of referral to Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn."

The Oakwood Clinic doesn't provide dental services, and Banish said that the staff especially welcomed the addition of the Sumpter Clinic dental trailer.

With 16 examining rooms, the clinic is larger than the 12 room Sumpter facility. About 10,000 patients — including 20 percent maternity cases — were treated there last year, say Oakwood staff.

The clinic's current sliding scale starts as low as $3 a visit, with a full-price fee set at $17, Banish said.

"We don't refuse patients of any kind," Banish emphasized. "We try to obtain assistance for those without any resources."

No special preparations are needed to ready the clinic for a sudden increase in patients, Banish said. "We'd have no problems with the merger if it happened tomorrow. We can do it," the physician said.

Sumpter Clinic Director Dr. Joseph Kobiljak, who will not be transferred to the combined facility, said he thought patients would receive "adequate" care at the Oakwood facility. "I know Dr. Battle (also an Oakwood director) and he's a very fine physician," Kobiljak said.

Belleville Postmaster says:

Careful addressing averts broken hearts

If you want your valentines to be delivered on target and on time, you can help the Postal Service by addressing them properly. Postmaster Tobin of Belleville Post Office said today.

"A return address should be the first address a person puts on an envelope," he said. "If there is a delivery problem, it will allow us to return the letter, card or parcel to the sender."

Both the return address and mailing address should contain complete address information. This includes all of the following elements that apply: Full name of recipient; apartment apartment number; Rural route number and box number; Street name and number or post office box number; and City, state and — very important — Zip code.

Postmaster Tobin also urged use of: legible handwriting, a ball point pen (felt tips smudge easily) and correct postage (oversized cards require extra postage).

"Proper addressing is especially important around holidays such as Valentine's Day, when many people do not use their return address information. But when the card or letter is undeliverable, the who who is surprised is the sender when he or she discovers it was not received," Tobin said. "Use a little care, and we'll get it there."

Compare IRAs

Which would you prefer... a higher stated interest rate or more money?

Michigan National compounds interest monthly to pay you more money for your money

Higher stated interest rates on Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) may sound good initially. But, if you're interested in earning more money for your money, consider the effects of Michigan National's monthly compounding of interest versus other banks' simple interest method of payment.

Earn interest on your interest

A minimum deposit of only $50 at Michigan National earns interest each month. So, month by month, year after year you continually earn interest on your interest.

Most other banks, however, pay interest on a simple basis.

No compounding.

No payment of interest on your interest.

That's why other banks can quote a higher rate, and yet, pay less interest over the lifetime of your investment.

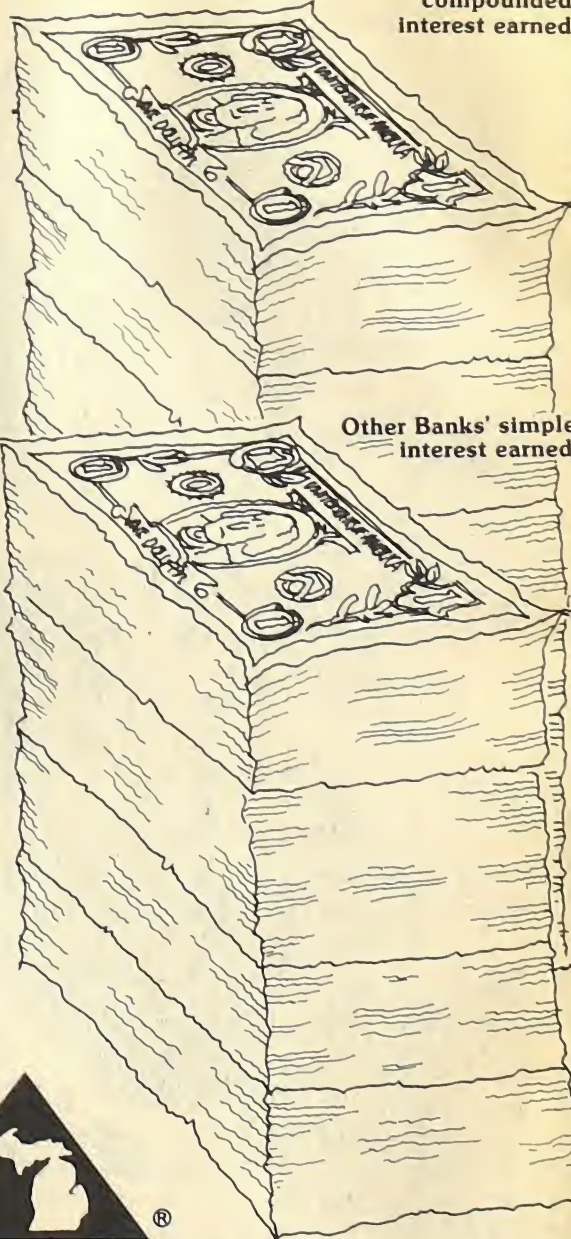

Don't be fooled by high interest IRA claims.

Invest your retirement savings with Michigan National where your IRA will earn more money for your money with monthly compounding.

Need a loan to fund your IRA?

Borrow up to your annual IRA contribution limit at preferred rates to take advantage of 1983 or 1984 tax deductions. Then write off interest payments for an additional tax savings. Ask for details on the advantages of an IRA loan at any branch office.

PRESCAD talks set

Sumpter residents concerned about the proposed merger of the Sumpter PRESCAD clinic and the Oakwood Hospital Family Practice Center are invited to a meeting at the Sumpter Township Hall on Monday, February 6 at 10 a.m.

Residents from both the clinic and Wayne County Executive William Lucas's office are scheduled to attend.

The economy

1984 is a turnaround year

Finally, the economy has turned from the negative to the positive spectrum. Few discuss it in "doomsday" terms and except for local school officials, most agree 1984 will be one of record profits in the auto industry, expansion in all phases of construction and unemployment, nationwide, down to the "acceptable" 4 to 5 percent.

After all, this is a presidential election year.

The national civilian unemployment rate fell from 10.4 to 8.1 percent as Americans greeted 1984, according to data released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Some of the other statistics offered by the Bureau include: an unemployment rate that fell by 2 or more percentage points over the past year in 88 of the 230 metropolitan areas and manufacturing employment that rose over the year in more than four out of every five states, up from two out of every three reported previously. In services, in wholesale and retail trade, three out of four states reported employment gains.

Employment in mining and transportation and public utilities however continued to be down over the year in a majority of the states.

Governor James J. Blanchard and the Michigan Legislative are "committed to getting this state back to work". Gov. Blanchard and the Legislature have recorded significant achievements in the area of jobs and economic development, education and environment.

In his status report on the economy, Gov. Blanchard noted that by the end of the year (1983) some 257 bills had been signed into law. They include legislation restoring the state's financial stability and credit rating, and legislation establishing the 25,000-member Michigan Youth Corps, which was so successfully launched last summer, and portions of the Governor's $800 million public works and construction package which is reportedly providing 23,000 jobs for skilled workers.

Governor Blanchard's 1983-84 budget, adopted by the Legislature, places new emphasis on fiscal responsibility, economic development, education and improving the quality of life for all Michigan citizens and, at the same time, downsizes state government.

Some 2,000 state employees have been cut from the state's payroll since Gov. Blanchard has taken office.

These legislative actions should improve Michigan's financial health, business climate and relations between state and local governments.

Economic predictions are also promising in home sales and construction business.

With mortgage interest rates sharply reduced from previous record highs, banks and financial institutions expect 1984 to be a banner year.

Locally, General Motors, Kelsey Hayes, Ford Motor Co., Chrysler and Perkins Engines in Wayne look to add workers.

If all these pieces fit, as expected, the long-awaited economic recovery will take place.

When you look at the mad-rush of consuming spending at the year's end — during the Christmas Holidays — which many stores say has not yet stopped, and when you consider that General Motors discusses profits in the billions (again) and not losses and when there are no major federal tax laws facing taxpayers this year, how else can one feel but optimistic about 1984?

Add to all this an inflation rate that is down to the 3 percent level, as compared to an annual rate of 18 percent just four years ago, and an interest rate down from a record high 21 percent to single digits, how else can one feel but optimistic about 1984?

Many economists doubted that this government had the wisdom and the knowledge to turn the economy around. 1984 is and will prove them wrong.

Mayor, council at odds

EDITOR — Upon reading many articles about our elected officials over the past couple of years, I would like to respond with a citizen's point of view.

It appears that Westland has had nothing but problems between the Mayor and City Council. This seems to be ongoing, especially after the Mayor's comments about his appointments being turned down.

What apparently has happened is the Council feels two people were not doing their jobs and did not confirm them. The Council gave their reasons and the Mayor should accept them, maybe not like them, but accept them.

What concerns me, is that it appeared recently that after the last election, that the Mayor finally would stop being so hard nose and start listening to the Council and work together. This doesn't seem to be happening. The Mayor now attacks councilmen Herbert and Mehl. The feud with Mr. Herbert has been on going, but against Mr. Mehl it hasn't, at least not publicly in the newspapers. The Mayor's attack on

Mr. Mehl I feel, is unwarranted. I have kept in constant touch with the happenings and read articles, and Mr. Mehl appears to do his homework and have the city at heart, not his own personal interests as the Mayor has said.

In fact, looking at the Council, Councilman Mehl seems to be a true leader, more so than any other Councilman.

I voted for the Mayor and supported him in his campaign, but I now feel I made a mistake. He does nothing constructive and accomplished nothing for the citizens of Westland. Mr. Mehl should think about running for mayor. I would certainly support him. His record speaks for itself.

Ferrantino eulogized

First, let me applaud Managing Editor Tom Mooradian for his exceptional column on a very controversial subject, namely, Michael Ferrantino. His column: "Good and Evil" which appeared last week showed a side of Mr. Ferrantino that most of the Press refused to look at. Mr. Ferrantino was truly a humanitarian and a man who gave to society and took little in return.

I'm pleased that you printed portions of letters forwarded to Judge DeMascio which painted a picture of the "real" Michael Ferrantino.

Tom McIntyre, a news reporter for WWJ-News Radio called Ferrantino a philanthropist (one who tries to benefit mankind). His generosity was discussed.

I would like to add to that comment by saying that I personally knew Mr. Ferrantino as a friend and as my employer. He truly was a rare human being. An extremely compassionate and generous person to those less fortunate. A man who loved his family deeply. He avoided publicity at all costs which may have hurt him in the end. Had the press been "privy" to the numerous kind and generous deeds this fine man bestowed on so many people, big and small, and all the charities and organizations he donated to, they would not have been so negative in their reporting.

The press played a part in the destruction of Mr. Ferrantino. He never wanted to make a big deal of his contributions to those in need. It was just something he wanted to do. To help those who were not in a position to help themselves. There was a rare and special quality about Mr. Ferrantino that will never be duplicated.

I wish Mr. Ferrantino had read or heard just one report concerning him that was not detrimental to his character. Now that he is no longer here there have been several commentaries made of him that were beautifully expressed. His goodness, kindness and generosity are now being discussed. Mr. Ferrantino would have been pleased to hear them while at the same time a little embarrassed that anyone would make such an issue about something that was so natural for him. That is the act of giving... from the heart.

His friends grieve for his family who read all the negative news articles which described a man unlike the wonderful man they knew and loved, articles which portrayed a man unlike the person his friends knew and loved. Nothing that was ever printed or said could ever change our opinion of this very special person. His goodness to so many people in all walks of life will long be remembered.

The following verses best describe Mr. Ferrantino. "Success is to be measured not so much by the position taht one has reached in life as by the obstacles which he has overcome while trying to succeed"... "Happiness comes of the capacity to feel deeply, to enjoy simply, to think freely, to risk life, to be needed"... with, but what he can love and value and appreciate"... "Real joy comes not from ease or riches or from the praise of men but from doing something worthwhile"... "Grant us brotherhood, not only for this day but for all our years — A brotherhood not of words but of acts and deeds"... "Only in winter can you tell which trees are truly green. Only when the winds of adversity blow can you tell whether an individual has courage and steadfastness"... "The real art of life consists in finding out what is the question to be solved, and the person who can find out what problem is to be solved is the man who really makes contributions to life"... "You will find as you look back upon your life that the moments that stand out are the moments when you have done things for others."

For those individuals who were unkind in their remarks of Mr. Ferrantino, I chose the following poem. "If you had known what troubles he was bearing, what griefs were in the silence of his face; perhaps you would have been more gentle and more caring and gave him gladness for a space. Perhaps you would have brought more warmth into his place... If you had known. If you had known what thoughts despairing drew him; (why did you never try to understand?) Maybe you would have lent a little friendship to him and slipped your hand within his hand and made his stay more pleasant in this land... If you had known."

Mr. Ferrantino was admired and respected by all who knew him. His absence is felt in many places by many people. He is missed.

I have no yesterdays, time took them away — Tomorrow may not be but I have today and today its nice to remember Michael Ferrantino.

Finances and our schools

Tom Mooradian Managing Editor

School officials have been living with the financial realities of life for some time.

And, at the rate voters turn down millages, educators undeniably will have to continue to tighten their belts. They express little optimism about a "turnaround", despite the promising economy.

Wayne-Westland schools cut 130 teachers, slashed programs and shortened the school day in order to "live within their budget".

Romulus "borrowed" from their teachers' salaries a year ago to remain in existence. They have since paid back some of what they took.

Taylor schools stopped bus service this week in hopes of awaking the parents to the realities that money — hard cash — is indeed needed to pay for services, services that include educating their children.

New and innovative financial systems are being looked at in order to pull the schools out of the quicksand of economic despair. But, none is acceptable. The property tax, the heart of school financing, remains the controversial artery which raises monies to local schools. Even legislation once popular that would authorize the state to run schools in bankrupt districts has long been forgotten.

Public schools, have fallen on hard times. And remain there.

Just ask any teacher, school official or educator! Times are rough.

Is it no wonder that, because of the shaky economics, good school teachers are stampeding to other professions?

An educator who last week lost his job with the Wayne-Westland schools after devoting 13 years to serving the children of the community, said he wasn't angry at what the board did. But he would have second thoughts of returning to a profession that rewarded professionals with a "slap on the face for doing their job."

"My heart goes out to the kids in the school district," the educator continued. "It is their lives that the school board are ruining. The kids undoubtedly will receive an inferior education."

"They have thrown out dedicated servants and devastated the lives of children who will not attend physical education classes at a time when they need it most. They will be deprived of art and music and many other programs," the educator continued.

"If I come off angry, I apologize. My anger is for what they did to kids. I feel that I am a marketable person. I will find another job, but what have we done to these children? This school district is considered one of the finest in the states, I hope it can continue to remain so. But we have destroyed a lot of lives."

"Is it no wonder that the school superintendent of this district wants out?" (Dr. Timothy Dyer recently announced that he would leave the school district this spring to accept a similar post in Arizona).

This educator's sentiments are echoed a thousand times in this and many other states.

Hard economic times have fallen on our schools.

We talk of teacher "accountability." Board accountability. Parent "accountability."

But, maybe it's time for a "total accountability" of all of these people.

Just maybe, working together, some solutions can be found.

Counselors are special people

EDITOR — May I address this letter to the Wayne-Westland school board: It takes a special kind of counselor to help students who are having problems as an adolescent. Many of the students attending the regular high schools never had anyone they could talk to about their personal or school problems, until they transferred to the Alternative Schools at Nankin Mills.

It seems the teachers and counselors in the day schools were just too busy or too formal in dealing with students.

I just wish all the students who have been helped by the counselors at Nankin Mills would call you and tell you not to cut the permanent, full-time counselors where they are needed the most.

Pat Greathouse's work appreciated

EDITOR — While working as an elected trustee in Van Buren Township, I have become acutely aware of the importance in value of the time and talents continuously donated to our local government by our residents.

Pat Greathouse, retired member of Labor Management, not only served as an able leader on the interim Board, but also worked with our board to conclude an equitable, decent contract for our employees. I would like to thank him as a resident and also as a board member for his time and patience — with all of us.

Thank you again. We look forward to working with you in the future.

Hank's dream come up again

EDITOR — A response to "Taxpayer has a dream" by Hank Lewinski.

I would like to applaud him for he said it all and very well as far as I am concerned.

The time has come for every politician to take a good hard look at reality and the people they supposedly represent.

"We the People" are truly fed up with more taxes as a cure for local, state and federal officials.

We the people elected these officials (some of us didn't, but we have to live with what they do) and we the people will also remove them if we have to.

Seniors say 'thank you'

EDITOR — A belated "Thank You" from the September Days Senior Citizens Center, for their Christmas Party. The following business people in Belleville gave great door prizes to make our Christmas party a grand affair:

Red Apple Restaurant, Jan & San's Beauty Salon, Belleville Drug Center, Andrews Pharmacy, Red Rooster, Hairpen Hair Styles, Golden Boy Restaurant, Tin Lizzie Restaurant, Nellis Foodland, A and P Food Store, Brass Belle Restaurant, Belle Chicken & Ribbs, Guys & Gals Hair Salon, Elias Brothers Restaurant, Captain Nemos, Henry R. Deering Agency and Belleville Flower & Gifts.

The Moose Lodge also deserves "Thanks" for having our Christmas party in their hall. The Senior Center staff and members who helped decorate the hall and all the entertainment committee. A great big "Thank You" for making our Christmas Party a big success.

About demise of arcades

EDITOR — At a City Council meeting held in Wayne Tower, back in 1982, the question arose about video arcades and the harassment senior adults had to endure from the patronizers of such.

Mayor Patrick Norton consoled all concerned by reminding them of the former era of pool rooms, saying "they too shall pass". The annihilation of Wayne's last downtown video arcade has certainly made that a true prophecy. Thank you Mr. Mayor and Council.

Now, shall we look forward to the hazardous walking conditions in downtown Wayne being alleviated? Might not a snow removal ordinance with iron teeth do the job?

Writer questions W-W's values

EDITOR — This letter is to the Wayne-Westland Board of Education and the Wayne-Westland School District.

Your values worry me. Do you really think by spending my tax dollars on music and art programs, is being more prudent than providing an education for students?

In the past, our school district has had a very low dropout rate compared to other districts because of the alternative junior and senior high programs.

How do you justify eliminating this junior high school program and cutting half the classes, as well as, necessary counseling and services for the senior high alternative students?

The economy and women

Since this is a special issue on economics, let's take a look at where women fit in.

Are women better off, economically, than they were 10 years ago? Is this income gap widening or narrowing? Are opportunities opening up for women? And what's going to happen in 1984?

In an article in the January issue of "Working Woman," Bureau of Labor Statistics commissioner Sam Ehrenhalt says that in the last 10 years the battle for equality in the workplace has changed: "In the 1970's breaking down the barriers was the challenge," he said. "In the 1980's, women's agenda will be promotion and pay."

According to Debra Kaplan Rubin, author of an article in that same magazine on who makes what and where, "Women may be gaining the same titles as men have, but they still earn just 62 percent of men's pay."

"What is new, however, is that the salary gap is starting to narrow," Rubin says. "A BLS survey in mid-1983 showed women earning 66 percent of men's weekly salaries across the board, with women professionals earning almost 71 percent."

Statistics also show that women lawyers average $20,000 less a year than men, and, in advertising, men earn almost $14,000 more than their female counterparts.

Studies show that women with training and with degrees are narrowing the income gap considerably, especially in the "high tech" fields — engineering, computers, science and physics. Rubin states that women made up just 14.6 percent of the engineering student body last year, yet female graduates in 1983 outdistanced men in salary offers in almost all (engineering) fields. The average offer for a woman with a BS in petroleum engineering was $30,780.

Rubin's survey sticks with jobs in the $300-a-week-and-up categories, so secretarial and service incomes are only briefly mentioned. She says, "Secretaries with word-processing skills have done well, earning a 9.7 average pay raise in 1982, the highest of all secretarial jobs surveyed by Professional Secretaries International."

On the face of it, it sounds good — however, she neglects to mention what the average secretary earns. (Obviously not $300 per week and up, or they might have been mentioned) According to the BLS, the mid-1982 average for a Stenographer in the private sector was $12,396.

On talking about the growth predicted for service industries, Rubin says, "While it will create opportunities for some, it may trap others. Nursing, teaching and secretarial jobs still have the largest ratios of women to men and the lowest pay."

"It's sad and kind of interesting," said a surveyor for the National Commission on Working Women, "When women first make inroads, it's very exciting, but when they bring more women with them, that department gets a reputation as a female ghetto. It's no longer seen as a step on the ladder to the top."

An example of a "female ghetto" is nursing. 95.6 percent of all registered nurses are women, as are the majority of nursing administrators. A hospital nursing administrator earns an average salary of $24,486, while the average net earnings of physicians (of which only 14.8 percent are women) is $93,270.

In a special report in the August, 1983 issue of "MS," Barbara Ehrenreich and Karin Stallard did a survey of their own, called "The Nouveau Poor." In it, they say, "The extreme occupational segregation of women in our society makes for a crucial difference between women's poverty and men's. For men, poverty is often a consequence of unemployment, and is curable by getting a job. But for women, concentrated in the low-wage stratum of the work force, a job may not be a solution to poverty."

"According to the National Advisory Council on Economic Opportunity, 'poverty among hundreds of thousands of women already working underlines the failure of the job' solution. Of the mothers working outside the house who headed households with children less than 18 years old in 1978, more than one quarter had incomes below the poverty level."

With Reaganomics has come an increase in feminization of poverty. Poverty doesn't necessarily equate idleness — welfare or ADC. Women earn, on average, just over $10,000 a year. The BLS says it takes $25,407 a year to maintain a family of four at an "intermediate" standard of living. In mid-1983 there were close to four million women who were the sole source of family income.

Mona Grigg

It isn't likely that 1984 will be the year women "catch up." There's too much "catching up" to do. In fact, if women haven't fallen behind by the end of 1984, it won't be because the Reagan administration and the New Right haven't tried.

Ehrenreich and Stallard say, "There is already a sense of desperation among America's female poor — a desperation that translates into a willingness to do almost anything, on any terms. One mother of three said, 'If it's a matter of having food on the table, I would do anything short of prostitution.'"

"One major effect of Reaganomics, comments Queens College economics professor William Tabb, is 'the creation of a veritable army of women who would potentially be available to work under extremely exploitative conditions.'"

George Gilder, President Reagan's favorite social theorist, believes that female wages undermine men's ability to control their destructive impulses. He advocates enforcing wage differentials between women and men — because unemployed men are potentially dangerous, while "unemployed women can perform valuable work in creating and maintaining families."

If the situation for women improves in 1984, I'll be the first to cheer — but I also don't plan on holding my breath.

reflections

What's wrong with people

Maybe it is the in-use cold. Maybe it is the snow on the ground and the gray days, but something seems to be wrong as I walk 'out there' where young receptionists greet me with expressions, and sales clerks are short tempered and rude. Maybe it is because their mothers gave up when they were little and their mothers couldn't get the need for courtesy through their fat little heads. That is probably what it is. I almost gave up, too.

I can remember when one kid would sit on the sink chomping away at an apple while kicking at his brothers; when one would look for the jar of peanut butter to spread on his loaf of bread, and the other kid had the jar stuffed in his shirt; when one was down on the floor wiping up the orange juice he had spilled when his sister bopped him over the head. ... I almost gave up, too.

I would shake the gravy ladle at them and holler, "If you want others to treat you with courtesy, then, by damn, you've got to be polite to them!"

"What's courtesy?" the kid with the mouthful of apple would always ask.

"Courtesy is being kind to one another. To speak gently. To be polite. To do unto others as you would have others do unto you," I would answer.

"Then Allan ain't polite," Fred would yell grabbing Allan around the neck in his attempt to get the peanut butter.

"And you ain't courteous!" Allan would yell back, kicking at his brother.

That's when I would forget about what I was saying and began knocking a couple of heads together.

"Mother, aren't parents supposed to be courteous, too?" my daughter would ask, wiping her shoes on the dish towel.

"Naturally," I would answer while gasping for breath as I held off the two angry kids.

"Humph," she would snort and grabbing the littlest kid's apple would sally off to school.

But eventually they learned, and in no time at all I had four courteous young people jumping out of the nest, which left only two still struggling.

One evening during that time my youngest boy came home and plopped down on the floor in front of the fire.

"Mother," he

asked, "Aren't adults supposed to practice a little bit of that courtesy stuff? Does it always have to be us kids doing the polite routine?"

"Of course," I answered. "How can young people learn to be courteous if adults aren't?"

"Well, you would have been proud of me tonight," he said.

Pulling up my chair closer to the fire and so that I could see his face I asked him to tell me about it. And then I waited. The kid squirmed around, fussing with his camera and his belt.

After taking off his shoes and throwing his socks on the coffee table, he said:

"You know I was supposed to take pictures tonight of the basket ball game for my school paper? I got permission from the assistant principal of the school and I was down there taking pictures, when I had to go out for a minute. When I got back in the principal came up to me and grabbed me by my shirt and hollered, 'what do you think you are doing in here?' I told him I had permission to take pictures from the assistant and he hollered, 'I'm the assistant's boss and I say you can't. So get out of here.' And he shoved me. But I was courteous."

"Oh!" I breathed. "That's good."

"Yep, I was real courteous. I didn't knock his teeth out. I didn't punch him in the nose!"

North slows Glenn title express

Four years and 11 months ago, the Rockets of Westland John Glenn, led by senior guard Daran Armstrong and head coach Gordie Davis, traveled to North Farmington High School to do battle with the Raiders on the basketball court.

On that particular night, Armstrong's 16 points led Glenn to a 60-54 victory over North, giving the Rockets a perfect 10-0 North-west Suburban League record and a first place finish.

That was the last league game for Armstrong and Davis as player and coach, respectively.

Until last Friday night, that is, Armstrong and Davis returned to the scene of their greatest triumph, this time with a new squad of Rockets, to do battle with the 1983-84 edition of the Raiders.

Unfortunately, for the Rockets, there was no storybook finish here. No triumphant return of the former player and coach to claim yet another league victory and insure their team stays in first place. No, not this time. North was ready for Glenn, who entered the game at 4-0 in the league, and defeated them 62-57. But not until the Rockets had extended them to three overtimes and given them a run for their money.

The loss by Glenn left them at 4-1 and tied them for first place once again with defending champion Thurston, who defeated Garden City, 50-46.

"It's a long way to go yet," said Davis. "We knew it when we were 4-0 that it'd be a long way to go. We have a lot of tough away games left."

Certainly the first period was not what a Glenn fan would care to remember about this game.

North came out firing, and grabbed a 22-8 lead at the first quarter horn. Bob Chwalik led the way for the Raiders with 8 points and Scott Draper hit 7 as they were determined to put the Rockets away early.

"We were getting the shots but we were 4-for-15. We just came out cold. Defensively, we didn't play with much intensity as we did later in the game."

But North knows full well that the Rockets do not give up. They found that out earlier this year on the gridiron when Glenn's defense stood up the Raiders repeatedly and came away with 6-0 victory and a share of the league title.

And that's exactly how the Rockets came out in the second quarter. They absolutely refused to quit. After falling behind, 24-8, with 6:30 left in the second period, Glenn came roaring back. Jeff Hawley and Marius Grazulis keyed the rally with four points apiece. Grazulis got hit with two fouls before the 3:00 mark and that put senior Todd Stein into the fray. Stein responded with a quick bucket and helped his teammates cut that lead to 11 by halftime.

"Stein gave us a boost when he came in. We lost any size when Mario left the game. Stein kept up in the game."

Rick Anderson, who scored 12 points on the evening, hit a couple jumpers to increase North's lead to 31-20 at halftime.

Davis and Armstrong, now an assistant coach, took their team into the lockerroom to discuss strategy for the second half. Armstrong, who played college basketball at Henry Ford Community College and Wayne State University, had not experienced a league loss since his sophomore year in high school, and was not about to do so now, either.

"They needed to play with more intensity. We played zone in the second quarter to help keep Mario out of foul trouble. In the third, we went to the full-court man-to-man in order to get everybody into the action. We felt we had to pressure their (See UPSET Page B-2)

Brewis era ends at U-M Dearborn

By JIM DUFRESNE
ANP Special Writer

She's quick, she's smart, she's aggressive on the basketball court. But unfortunately for the University of Michigan-Dearborn, Kathy Brewis is a senior and her playing days on the women's basketball team are numbered.

When the 5-8 forward from Wayne walks off the court for the final time this season, it will be the end of a long era at U of M-Dearborn. What is finished is just not Kathy's sparkling four-year career, but a decade of family involvement in a university basketball program.

Kathy is the fifth Brewis to play for the U of M-D Wolves, and that's not counting her sister-in-law who also played for the women's team. Brother Riek was the first when he arrived in 1975. Kathy is the last and when she steps off the home court Feb. 28 in a game against Nazareth, 10 years of Brewis talent will be gone.

"It's more than just five brothers and sisters playing basketball for the same university," said Gene Boldon, U of M-D athletic director and coach for the women's team. "What is remarkable is the faith and dedication that this family had in our athletic program."

After a good high school career at Divine Child, Rick decided to attend U of M-D and play for the men's team. He had faith in an athletic program that was just beginning to take form. The men's basketball team was in only its second season and home court for them was neighboring Henry Ford Community College.

The next year Divine Child graduated another Brewis, Bill, and he followed his brother to U of M-D. The program continued to grow and at the start of the 1978-79 season, U of M-D had two things going for its men's team—a new $3.3 million field-house and three Brewis brothers on the squad. Mike, a freshman guard had just made the team and at the end of the season Rick was the all-time scorer for the Wolves.

Mary was next in line to put on the blue and maize uniform of U of M-D when she began playing for the women's team in 1979. Two years later Divine Child sent Kathy to the university and for two seasons the Brewis sisters were starters for the Wolves.

"I had been playing with Mary since fourth grade," said Kathy. "By the time we were playing here, we knew each other pretty well. On the court she always seems to know where I was and what I was going to do."

The 1982-83 season was especially sweet for them. Mary was the senior captain and the leader of the squad. Kathy was the team's second leading scorer. Together they lead the Wolves to a 13-15 mark, the school's best record in three years.

This year Kathy is the lone and final Brewis in the U of M-D athletic program. And while the women's team is struggling with a 5-9 record, she is having another solid season.

In 13 games, Kathy is the second leading scorer with a 12.4 average and leads the team in rebounds and assists. Her best game was the school's win over Olivet College when she paced the Wolves with 24 points. Her favorite, however, was the overtime win over University of Windsor.

Romulus runner-up at Melvindale High wrestling tourney

Mending a line-up that had been riddled by injuries, Romulus' Wayne Schimming managed to put together a team that finished second at the Melvindale Invitational Wrestling Tournament.

"We had three starters out of the line-up due to injuries," Coach Schimming said, "so I figured Saline would win it."

Schimming figured right as Saline garnered 173½ points to claim the championship trophy. Romulus finished second with 121½, followed by Southgate Aquinas (101½), Monroe Jefferson (81½), New Boston Huron (69), Melvindale (66½), Flat Rock (66), Dearborn Heights Robichaud (54) and Riverview (6).

Romulus received an outstanding performance from its 121-pounder, Chuckie Wilson, who defeated Monroe Jefferson's Jim Moore on a 1:21 fall to avenge an earlier loss to his arch-rival.

The Eagles also produced four silver medalists thanks to Joe Mabelitini (100), John Montroy (140), Rex Boatright (147), and Bill Garland (157).

Mabelitini lost to New Boston Huron's Scott Glasgow by a pin in 1:30, while Huron's Danny Ziegler claimed the gold by defeating Montroy in an overtime bout, 1-0. Robichaud's William Lucas out-wrestled Boatright 9-2 and Flat Rock's Todd Gillman walked off the mats with a 10-6 decision over Garland.

Scott McNett gave the Eagles a third place with his 2:55 victory over Monroe Jefferson's David Cox in the 200-pound category and Romulus also had a fourth place in the 114-pound class when Matt Scully lost a 9-2 decision to Monroe Jefferson's Brian Taylor. "This was a well-balanced tournament," Schimming said. "There were many regional and state qualifiers represented in the weight classes along with team depth."

Schimming said that he knew that his team would be able to compete for the top three places if five of his wrestlers could reach the finals.

"These kids did it," he added, "and we're proud of them."

CHUCKIE WILSON

It's a record

Romulus 117, Taylor 55

After destroying Taylor Center with a record-scoring 117-55 victory, Romulus cagers and Coach Al Wilkerson will travel to Oak Park Friday night for their second look at league-leading Oak Park.

The first time around, the Eagles lost a thriller on the home court to the Metro West Conference leaders. They now must win in order to salvage a share of the championship.

"I felt that we could have beaten them (Oak Park) the last time," said Coach Wilkerson as he prepared his cagers for the showdown. "What happened, I feel, is that we didn't believe we could (win) until the last few minutes of the game."

"If that game would have continued for another minute or so, we would have won," Wilkerson offered.

There was no doubt in anyone's mind after the initial minutes of their record evening who was in command against Taylor Center. Scoring 28 points in the first period, the Eagles went on a scoring rampage which ended with the school scoring record of 117 points.

The previous all-time Romulus high for one game was set in 1966 when the Eagles put 105 points on the scoreboard.

Romulus also shattered the single game field goal record when they tallied 53 from the field. The Eagles made an incredible 65.8 percent of their shots from the field.

"It wasn't that Taylor Center played bad," Wilkerson explained, "but that our kids played well. Our second string also put 55 points on the board."

Thirteen Romulus players scored with Terry Mills's 22 standing up for the game's high. Grant Long contributed 18 points, while Stevie Glenn and Terry Roache split 24 points between them. Ned Hargress also was in double figures with 10.

The Eagles had a 28-4 lead at the end of the initial period and held an insurmountable 59-15 edge at intermission. With the second team playing all of the last half, Romulus enjoyed a 89-32 advantage for three periods, and then outscored their conference rivals, 28-23, in the record-setting night.

It was a different story against a never-say-die Howell quintet last Tuesday, however.

Up by 23 points early in the fourth period, Romulus fought off the stubborn Howell club which came within four points of tying the game before losing the 69-53 non-league decision.

Mills, who scored 10 of his game high 26 points in the final period, brought the Eagles back.

Three players — Kirk Ford, Phil Weiss and Mark Redinger — accounted for all of the Howell points. Redinger had 22, Weiss 19 while Ford put in 12.

Glenn tied up on mats by North

Although Coach Tom Buckalew and Westland John Glenn knew that No. 1 state ranked and defending state champ, Temperance Bedford, had too much over-all depth for them the Westlanders didn't figure to end up in a tie with their Northwest Suburban Conference rival, North Farmington, last week.

Glenn, which has captured a dozen or more conference wrestling championships, was forced to settle for a 33-all deadlock with North and this was the first time in recent years that the Rockets' league record had been marred.

Buckalew and his grapplers will wrap up the league dual meet phase of the season on Thursday when they host Livonia Franklin. The Westlanders will take a 11-6-1 over-all record, after losing to Bedford 53-16 and Hazel Park 45-14 in out-of-conference matches.

Here is last week's wrap-up mat wrap-up:

guards," said Davis.

The strategy worked as the Rockets held the Raiders to only eight points in the third quarter, which enabled them to cut the lead to seven, 39-32, at the end of the period. Everybody got into the act for Glenn as six men scored one bucket apiece. Dave Long's shot with 4:30 left cut the lead to 33-28, but Anderson's four points and Chwalik's two free throws pushed the lead to seven at the horn.

Davis had praise for Long, who played "intense defense, made some nice shots, and contributed to our fourth quarter comeback." Unfortunately for the Rockets, Long was not around for much in the overtime having been injured while going up for an offensive rebound in the second overtime. He remains doubtful for this week's games.

But the Rockets would not fold. They responded to pressure from the Raiders in that final quarter. Everytime the Raiders made a basket, the Rockets would respond with one of their own. Grazulis' field goal with 3:43 left cut the lead to four, 43-39, then Long's basket with :18 left cut it to two, 49-47.

North had a chance to win it in regulation time, but Glenn got the ball back with enough time on the clock to do something meaningful. With the clock ticking down the seconds, Craig Thornton got the ball to the left of the basket and drilled it through the twine to tie it at 49-49.

As the Glenn fans celebrated, their thoughts began drifting toward the 5-0 mark their team would have if they pulled it out in overtime.

"We should have had them in the first overtime," said Davis, but we missed from the free throw line. We had the last shot but didn't hit it."

For awhile in overtime, it looked like neither team wanted the game. The first overtime ended, 50-50, with a free throw apiece from each team. Mike Baydarian hit for Glenn and Rick Pennala hit one for North. The second overtime ended 54-54 as Baydarian tallied two free throws for the Rockets and Anderson had two for the Raiders.

In the third overtime, with fans from both sides shaking the rafters, North took charge behind Draper's two points and Steve Bambach's two clinching free throws with :12 left, that gave them the final 62-57 margin.

Glenn is still tied for first place with Thurston and will face Livonia Franklin Friday.

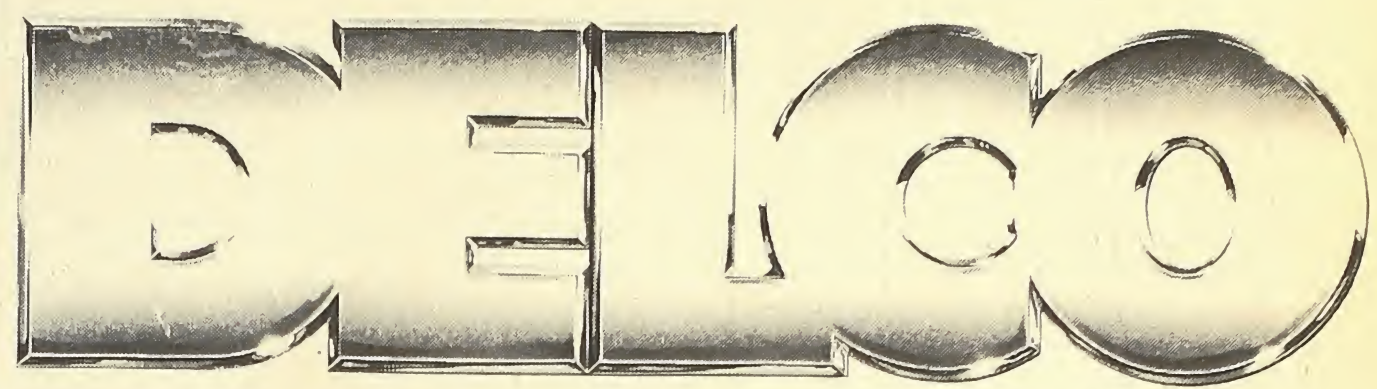

"Every game will be a battle. We need four quarters like the fourth quarter Friday night," said Davis.

Earlier in the week, Glenn suffered a 48-45 loss to tough Livonia Churchill, as the Chargers' John Gzybek led the way with 19 points.

Glenn trailed nearly the entire game but kept within striking distance with Baydarian hitting for 18 points and Grazulis 16.

Brewis' era ending

"That was our first win of the year and it felt good to win such a close one," Kathy said. "After this year I'll probably join Mary and my sister-in-law in an adult league.

"But I'm going to miss playing on a college team and practicing everyday with my teammates."

But the question is what are her parents, Richard and Mary Lou Brewis, going to do for entertainment in the middle of the week? For the past 10 years they've been attending U of M-D basketball games.

"I don't know," Kathy said with a smile. "They've made most of our home games since my brothers started playing."

Joining Mills in double figures were Long and Shawn Perkins who each had 13.

"Howell came into the game with only two losses (Lansing

At Huron High

Huron High juniors and seniors are enrolling in a new class known as Distributive Education. The course will offer a wide variety of sales and sales supporting tasks similar to those found today in many retailing establishments in Michigan.

Students enrolled in Distributive Education will also actively take part in the organization, operation, and management of a school store.

The class will meet in a two hour time sequence on a daily basis. The class will result in one credit toward graduation. It will eventually turn into a year long offering in which a student will be capable of earning a total of two credits for the experience.

There appears to be several new faces in the halls of Huron High School. Larry Swick has been employed as the new assistant principal as the former assistant, Raymond Vollmar, has returned full-time to counseling in both Renton Junior High School and the Huron High School.

Swick has been a very familiar figure around Huron as he taught and coached here for eight years and is remembered as the coach of the 1981 Huron League Champion baseball team. Swick will also teach Distributive Education two hours daily.

Tom LaBeau has been appointed the high school Athletic Director and Varsity football coach for next year.

Do you need a dog tag?

Romulus pet owners are reminded that Feb. 4 and Feb. 25 are days they can purchase dog license tags and have pets inoculated for a nominal fee, says City Treasurer John B. Lewkowicz.

Pets will be inoculated at the DPW Garage, located across the street from the Post Office at Shook and Bibbins.

The clinic will be opened from 1 to 4 p.m. to allow residents to beat the March 1 deadline for both shots and dog tags. Senior citizens will pay only half price for licenses.

Local Girl Scouts launch their cookie sales

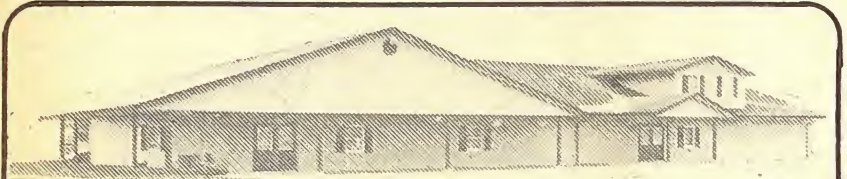

The 25th annual Huron Valley Girl Scout Council cookie sale began over the weekend and will run through February 10. Girl Scouts from Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and northern Monroe Counties will be taking orders for seven varieties of cookies during this period.

Mrs. Jeanne Wood from Canton, chairman of the 1984 cookie sale, says, "The proceeds from the sale will be used to benefit Girl Scouts individually and through troop and Council program opportunities. These funds maintain three Council camps, provide staff services, girl and adult training events and much more.

"The sale is the Council's primary fund raiser and is the vital link in continuing to provide Girl Scout program to girls now and in the future," Mrs.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR A CONSTRUCTION PERMIT FOR A NEW HAZARDOUS WASTE TREATMENT AND DISPOSAL FACILITY

Pursuant to Section 19(1) of the Michigan Hazardous Waste Management Act, 1979 PA 64, as amended, notice is hereby given that on January 13, 1984, the Department of Natural Resources received an application for a hazardous waste treatment and disposal facility from Environmental Management Systems, Inc.

The applicant proposes to construct a facility for the treatment of liquid hazardous wastes, the processing of hazardous waste sludges, and the disposal of hazardous wastes.

The facility is proposed to be located on the northeast corner of the intersection of Interstate 275 and Will Carlton Road, Huron Township, Wayne County. The site is approximately 300 acres in size. The proposed facility location is shown on the map below:

HURON TOWNSHIP INDUSTRIAL WASTE MANAGEMENT FACILITY

Pursuant to Sections 19, 20 and 21 of Act 64, the Department shall act upon the application as follows:

The Department will first review the application to see if it is complete. If it is, the Director of the Department will conduct a technical review and either recommend approval or deny the application on or before May 12, 1984. If the application is found to be incomplete, the missing information will be requested in writing from the applicant. At the time the missing information is provided by the applicant, the Department will immediately notify Huron Township and will proceed with the technical review of the application. The Director will then have 120 days from the date the missing information was received to either recommend approval or deny the application.

If the Department recommends approval of the application, a site review board will be established pursuant to Section 17 of Act 64 to review the impact that the proposed disposal facility will have on the local community. The application package may be reviewed at the Wayne County Health Department, Division of Environmental Health, 3669 Metro Place Mall, Wayne, Michigan, and Huron Township Offices, 37290 Huron River Drive, New Boston, Michigan.

Exercise restraint...

Seat belt, car seat law urged

The issue of whether or not automobiles should be equipped with passive restraints of some kind by government edict is a highly politicized one that's been under a good deal of pressure from certain groups, according to Gertrude McWilliams, editor and publisher of Concerning Cars.

The evidence is clear that three-point seat belts have a very considerable life saving potential, as well as the potential to reduce the severity of injury, if they are worn. Estimates of effectiveness are between 50 and 65 percent, and belts are effective in all kinds of accidents. They are also in about 90 percent of cars on the roads today, according to McWilliams, who added: "We know that usage runs at only about 13 percent."

The question of whether or not our government should mandate belt wearing then arises. "At least, that is what ought to arise — not whether or not it should pull the wool over our eyes by mandating the automobile industry to include passive restraints with which we'll be stuck, whether we want them or not, and for which we'll have to pay."

"It can be argued that mandatory belt usage is an infringement of personal freedom," she said. "To some extent it is, but the argument doesn't hold much water. For one thing, in 1982, 1,550 youngsters under the age of 15 were killed in automobiles, and another 128,800 were injured. If 3-point belts are from 50 to 65 percent effective, we could have saved between 775 and 1,000 of those young lives and reduced the severity of, or eliminated altogether, injury to another 64,000 to 84,000."

world of wheels ... by denny campbell

We're going to start off this week by giving you Mustangs out there some advance warning on a swap meet that's going to happen at Atchinson Ford in Belleville.

Ready? Get your calendars out and ready to mark. February 23, 24 and 25 the Atchinson Ford Mustang Owners Club sponsors their annual blow-out — three big days of good deals, barter and hard-core swapping of Mustang cars, parts and goodies! If you need space, best call Skip Anderson or Bill Gage, but do it soon!

I was lucky enough to catch a drive in a new Pontiac Fiero last week. It was the same day the owner took delivery, as a matter of fact, and I have to tell you, I was impressed. I've been a little leery of things I've heard — underpowered and nose heavy steering. Well, it is and it ain't! Depending on your nosebleed quotient, under-powered is relative — but noseheavy steering isn't one of the Fiero's drawbacks! I found it lightning quick and agile. In fact, if you turbocharged it, or put in an HO motor, I would be hard pressed to explain to someone why he should buy a Corvette over a Fiero.

We're talking half the price for the same quality; a high-standard interior and magnificent sound system, not to mention non-rustable body, two seats (anybody who builds a car too small for a gang of young kids can't be all bad) and ferocious stance. No wonder there's a waiting list.

A local, large car building firm that GENERALLY goes by two letters has made a large advance in the area of three-wheeled vehicles. If any of you are "Road and Track" readers, remember the coverage of "eque-lean" scooters, you have a pretty good idea of what I speak. If not, mentally picture a three-wheeled vehicle that adjusts camber on all three wheels according to the direction of your turn — it leans into the turn you are making.

Now, just a little imagination will give you an idea of the slot-car type turns you could make — even in an enclosed body you could hear the screams. Our insider tells us that "THEY" have even talked to Harley-Davidson about possible construction. I guess that means the motor would have to be 1000 cc's or better. Another local group is interested — maybe they'll use 550s. Can you tell I'm a less-is-better kind of guy?

If you haven't noticed, February is upon us already! The last good snow month — look around you, the long faces you see belong to the snowmobilers. Yup, the last good ride is near. If you get really lucky, you sneak in a trip to the U.P. in March, but most of us can't bring it off without undue grief from family and employer.

My point is this — be kind to your friendly snowmobiler! His sickness lasts only three months and he doesn't know how to cope — he has to secretly pray for snow — secretly 'cause his neighbors would kill him if they knew. His dealer is placing two-wheeled obstacles in his way on his trip to the parts counter and his trailer plate is due March 1. And this guy doesn't know whether to renew or not! C'mon, you guys, pat him on his, er, back, and tell him it will be all right. He needs our support. He'll adjust to spring, it just takes him some time.

And speaking of time — same time, same place, next week.
